HUMAN CAPITAL EXECUTIVES CONVENE IN NYC AT LEADERSHIP FORUM

Epsen Fuller & Associates Sponsors Event on Defining Tomorrow's Leaders

Morristown, NJ (October 11, 2005) – Epsen Fuller & Associates will join Hunt-Scanlon, a leading market research firm and information provider to the human capital and executive recruiting industries, in a unique conference to discuss the strategic issues related to effective management of human capital facing senior-level executives today. The 9th in a series of executive-level conferences, "Defining Leaders" will examine the process of building corporate leadership – from identifying and recruiting, to training, developing and sustaining the world's top executives.

In today's business world of aggressive re-growth and stiff competition, the difference between success and failure depends primarily on the strength of a company's leadership. Epsen Fuller & Associates continues to focus on enabling clients to reach out and tap the talent that will strengthen their foundation today, develop the leaders for tomorrow and move with confidence into the future.

Throughout the two-day event, attendees will hear from a variety of industry leaders, including former GE Chairman and CEO, Jack Welch, in an intimate conversation on upgrading management teams, a keynote address by Lucien Alziari, SVP of Human Resources at Avon Products, and a special presentation by two-time Pulitzer Prize winning author and historian, David McCullough.

The event is attended by CEO's and their senior HR executives from some of the most notable Fortune 500 to include IBM, PepsiCo, Honeywell, Verizon, Eli Lilly, Unilever, Fidelity, Merrill Lynch, Credit Suisse First Boston, Pitney Bowes, and Goldman Sachs.
